Rev. J. W. Porter is preaching some forcible sermons in the First Baptist Church. He is an engaging speaker and is listened to with great interest. Sermons are held in the day at 11 o'clock and at night at 7:30 o'clock. The singing is much enjoyed. The spiritual interest is increasing.

This will be a piece of good news to some of the local "fans." The Cincinnati Reds dropped into Montgomery for a series of three games with the local team, which had all along been very meek for the Louisville's. It took two innings for the Reds to realize they couldn't handle the youngsters, and the score at the close stood 6 and 6. Willey Davis was knocked out of the box.

Their chief wants have been of a nursing and food, and by the kind assistance of the Alms Committee these wants have been successfully supplied. KENTUCKIANS!

Reasons Why They Should Stand For Governor Bradley.

HE MIGHT BE PRESIDENT.

Opposition to Him in Kentucky is Largely in "Fake" Dispatches.

THE SITUATION AS IT IS.

Correspondence Public Ledger.

LOUISVILLE, March 30th.

All of the talk about opposition to Governor Bradley in the Republican party in Kentucky originates from the personal jealousy of a very few men who have been disappointed in their schemes to use the Governor. These men who are seeking to divide the party in Kentucky with promises of patronage and with threats against those who do not side with them are offering an insult to the intelligence of the party in the state.

McKinley is not by any means the certain winner that a few anti Bradley men, aided by Democratic papers, are trying to make the Kentucky Republicans believe. And if McKinley should be nominated and elected, the men who are now most loudly claiming that they are to distribute all the patronage will not be able to discharge the promises that they are making, because McKinley and his managers have not authorized and will not assume the responsibility for them.

Governor Bradley deserves the united and hearty support of all Kentucky Republicans, not only because he carried the party banner to victory, but because he represents the Kentucky idea in National politics. The free silverites of all political denominations would be delighted to see Governor Bradley beaten, because he stands today as the foremost sound-money advocate in the United States. To him more than to any other public man is credit due for the repudiation of free silver, and the strides on the subject that both parties had, up to last year, been guilty of. The people of Kentucky will not forget his utterances at the Auditorium last year that electrified the people, not only of Kentucky, but of the country; and they will not forget that Governor Bradley had both the courage to take this advanced position and the ability to defend it against the combined assaults of Democrats and Populists.

When William O. Bradley unopposed and silenced the free-silver Democrat, P. W. Harkin, in the presence of that magnificent audience at the first joint debate, the man would have been thought crazy who had intimated that if the splendid leader and orator should win his fight, any Republican would dare oppose instructions for him for President of the United States. But in less than a year petty jealousies of small men, suddenly brought into view on the swell of the great political wave, are setting them selves up in opposition to the man by whose ability and courage it has been made possible for them to be even known.

For a quarter of a century William O. Bradley has been building a political structure that will stand long after the small bore politicians who think their names ought to be written on the same page with his are forgotten. Accidental products of a great political upheaval, mere lay figures in the greatest political drama since the war, these men make as held up by Democratic party orators as the great actors in the play, thereby to confuse the Republicans and draw them from their allegiance to the man whose genius and power alone produced the result that his party is proud of.

Governor Bradley's chances for the Presidential nomination are improving every day. McKinley's friends are working hard, and so far have the lead, but it is utterly improbable that they will have anything like the more than 450 votes necessary to nominate in the Convention at St. Louis. And against McKinley will to drop in any place you see the sign "Jeweler," when your watch don't keep time and you want it put in such condition that it will. Not one in every ten can make more than a bluff at cleaning it. It ought to be cleaned, of course, but cleaning is the smallest item of all that goes toward making a watch keep time. There are many fine adjustments that may have become deranged, or if some of the delicate parts are badly worn, it requires the highest grade of skill in watchmaking to repair it so it will keep perfect time.

A watch made right here—cut from the raw material, pronounced by experts to be equal to anything they have ever seen in finish and workmanship,—that we have carried for over ten years will sustain our claim to being the only place in Maysville where you can have your watch put in perfect order, no matter what it needs.

J. BALLENGER, Maysville, Ky.

In the estimation of the party of the country. It will place the Kentucky party in the unfavorable position of being a mere aggregation of self seekers, careless of the great results of Governor Bradley's splendid victory for party principles, and only eager to get in line for Federal patronage, and lacking the self-respect to stand up for a Kentucky Republican and the claims of the Republican party in this state for National recognition.

And the country will see in the success of a few disgruntled politicians and office-seekers the proof that there is one Republican in Kentucky who is a great man, and that his party is lacking in the elements of greatness that deserve the splendid leadership of such a man as Governor Bradley. The failure of Kentucky Republicans to send a solid Bradley delegation to St. Louis would not win the gratitude of any Presidential candidate who might profit by such treachery to the acknowledged leader of the party in the state, but it would earn for them the contempt of those for whom such treachery is practiced. The Benedict Arnold of politics are rewarded by the same contempt as those of war.

A display of the latest novelties in trimmed and untrimmed hats at Mrs. Kate Bierley's on Friday and Saturday, April 3d and 4th. The public cordially invited.

Many farmers have burned no plant last year. Their New Year, and those who burned early have not yet seen any signs of sprouting plants. The ground is so wet now in this section that it will be some days before it will be in condition for sowing. But there is a "good time and a harvest" and there is time yet.

The best crop of tobacco raised in our neighborhood in Bracken county was set with plants from a bed sowed April 9th, with sanded seed.

How's this for push? The Methodists of Lexington have organized a Sunday school, and have a large attendance at their regular morning services at the schoolhouse. A movement is also on foot to build a new Methodist Church at that place. It is understood that Mr. Fisher will donate the lot and lumber, Mr. Barrett will give $500 cash, Mr. Jones will do the plastering and others will donate work sufficient to complete a handsome edifice which will be a credit to the town.

During the winter of 1893, F. M. Martin of Frankfort, Ky., West Va., contracted a severe cold which left him with a cough. In speaking of how he cured it he says: "I used several kinds of cough syrups but found no relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved me almost instantly, and in a short time brought about a complete cure."

When troubled with a cough or cold use this remedy and you will not find it necessary to try several kinds before you get relief. It has been the market for over twenty years and constantly grows in favor and popularity. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. S. Wood, Druggist.

votes, representing no great principle in advance of their party and presenting no name that commanded the confidence of the party for practical success.

But now for the first time they have a leader whose name in the St. Louis Convention will evoke more disinterested enthusiasm than any other, and who can challenge any other Republican in the country to show the same probable strength before the people of the whole country.

If the Kentucky Republicans are not a unit for Governor Bradley the result will not be to detract at all from Governor Bradley's solid reputation, but it will lower the Republican party of Kentucky
